Entertainment For A Cause

There are plenty of events in October that benefit charitable organizations.

Oh The Humanity Of Arts...

There is plenty on tap this month in the area. From young piano prodigies to Gypsy folk music, there is something for everyone.

Throughout the month of October, the City of Roswell is participating in the National Arts and Humanities Month. This initiative is sponsored by the Roswell Cultural Arts Board and will feature events honoring the rich artistic and cultural heritage of Roswell. There is a wide array of offerings from gallery exhibits and lectures to concerts and dance performances. Residents will be able to fill their social calendars with fun outings for the entire family.

Highlights include a performance of the Metropolitan Ballet Theater on Oct. 13 and 14, a Halloween funhouse at the East Roswell Recreation Center on the 18th, a lecture from author Susan Rebecca White at the main library on the 20th, and yes, there is even a chili cook-off at the Arts Center West on the 27th.

For more information on these or other activities, contact Morgan Timmis at 770-594-6187 or visit www.roswellgov.com.
